

RIVAL MEXICAN ARMIES FACING DECISIVE TEST

Big Battle at Hand Between Forces of Villa and Obregon.

EACH HAS 20,000 VETERAN TROOPS

W. B. Cox, American Caught at Chihuahua, Held for Passing Counterfeit Money.

(From The Tribune Bureau)

Washington, April 6.—A test of the relative strength of the rival armies in Mexico, which bids fair to be the most important struggle of the war, is impending to-night thirty kilometers south of Irapuato, where General Obregon has approximately 20,000 of the best men of the Constitutional army, while an equal force of Conventionals under General Villa has left Irapuato, marching southward to meet them.

The State Department received advice to-day that a clash had been expected yesterday, but neither of the agencies of the rival governments had word to-night indicating the engagement was on.

The Convention agency announced the cause of the recent order of General Villa that persons circulating counterfeit money would be summarily dealt with. It declared the passing of spurious paper had become so serious as to make exemplary punishment a prime necessity. It expressed the intention of the Villista government to deal with native Mexicans and aliens indiscriminately.

Cox Held as Counterfeiter.

With regard to the charges against W. B. Cox, an American, captured at Chihuahua, the statement said that Cox, formerly of Williamson, W. Va., was held under counterfeiting charges at Chihuahua. The agency is advised that Cox entered Mexico through Tampico, carrying with him 2,000,000 counterfeit pesos, and the day he was arrested he had only 109,560 counterfeit pesos, indicating that he had put into circulation about 1,900,000 pesos of his worthless money.

The State Department says it has no "suitable representations" in the case.

Recent advances from the rival provinces of Yucatan are of a reassuring character. Ships laden with coal are leaving Progreso and Merida regularly.

The Constitutional agency issued a statement announcing the complete suppression of the revolt in Yucatan through the activity of General Alvarado.

Caranza Against Neutral Capital. Insinuations have come to the American government that General Caranza will not consent to the neutralization of Mexico City, as proposed to and accepted by the Villa-Zapata forces.

No definite answer has been received from Caranza, but reports to the State Department indicate that he is willing to accept the proposal. It is believed, however, that arrangements may be made for uninterrupted passage of trains to and from Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

SUES DOCTOR, WINS $2,000

Patient Charged He Made New Operation Necessary.

A verdict for $2,000 was rendered in the Supreme Court yesterday against Dr. James D. Vorhees in a suit brought by Mrs. Anna M. Rogers, wife of a civil engineer employed by the Public Service Commission. Dr. Vorhees operated on Mrs. Rogers at a hospital. After he ordered her discharge she suffered pains that made necessary a second operation, which consisted of the removal of pieces of glass from the original wound.

Mrs. Rogers said that when she told the physician about her pains he said that the wound was not healing. It was contended that Dr. Vorhees should have ascertained the cause of the patient's suffering before she left the hospital. It was not alleged that the physician was responsible for the presence of the foreign substance.

BOOK LOVERS BID FOR RARE VOLUMES

J. F. Drake Pays $3,250 for Famous Trautz-Bauzonnet Binding from Ives Collection.

Book lovers from many cities gathered in force at the American Art Galleries last night, where the opening session of the sale of the literary treasures forming the library of the late General Brayton Ives was held. The sale, conducted by Thomas E. Kirby brought a total for the 224 items offered of $17,391.

There was lively bidding for what were regarded by the experts as the choice items, many of which came originally from the Ives collection. The top price of the evening, $3,250, was paid by J. F. Drake for a famous binding by Trautz-Bauzonnet, in which is contained the works of Guillaume de Machiavelli, of Paris. This binding, which was executed in 1874, is a dark blue levant morocco, with gilt floral figures in compartments, and a mosaic design of citron levant morocco, with dark circular inlays and double borders of dark blue levant morocco with gilt leaf branches.

For an exceedingly scarce first edition of Browning's "Pauline: A Fragment of a Confession," the original copy of which was owned by the late John Wilson at Kilmarnock in 1788 and bound in full green levant morocco by Riviere. It was finally knocked down to Gabriel Weiss for $800.

George D. Smith was quite a persistent bidder and buyer. He gave $490 for one of only a dozen copies known of "Juxta Ritu Romanorum Curia," a breviary from the press of Nicolaus Jenson, printed on vellum and illuminated in gold and colors by a contemporary French artist. It came originally from the Hamilton Palace Library.

Mr. Smith's other purchases included a unique copy of the first edition of Claret's novel "Puyjoll," with forty-four original water color drawings by Robaud, for which he gave $350; $250 for a first edition of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sonnets" and $240 for Bayne's translation of Boccaccio's "Decamerone," in four volumes.

Dr. Martini gave $600 for the most famous book from the Aldine Press, the Robert Hoe copy of Colonna's "Hypnerotomachia Poliphili," with the remarkable sacrificial cut. For Dantoni's rare "L'Honneur de Noble Blason," in binding by Lortie, of which only one other copy is known, E. S. Hellman paid $400, and $290 was paid by L. C. Harper for "The Works of Geoffrey Chaucer," edited by F. S. Ellis. The sale continues this afternoon.

HOME OF PRIEST STONED BY MOB

Strikers at Summit, N. J., Threaten Jail When 3 'Rioters' Are Arrested.

CROWD AT CITY HALL ROUTED BY FIRE HOSE

Women Menace Workers Going to Mills Under Guard of Police.

Summit, N. J., April 6.—Striking weavers bombarded the home of the Rev. Paul Kassir, a Syrian priest, to-night with stones. Three men were singled out of the crowd of several hundred and rushed to the county jail at Elizabeth. Four men arrested earlier in the day on charges of assault preferred by the priest are out on bail.

Following the demonstration in front of Father Kassir's home the strikers marched to the City Hall and demanded that their companions be released.

In spite of Chief Brown's assertion that they had been taken to Elizabeth, the crowd threatened to break into the jail, but were finally dissuaded and marched toward the home of Mayor Bergen. Chief Brown obtained a fire company, which intercepted the parade and turned it back.

Fire Hoses Rout Mob.

At City Hall the strikers again became menacing, and the entire fire department was called out. There were nearly 3,000 persons there when a hose was laid and connected with hydrants. The fear of a bath accomplished what police and deputies had failed to do, and the crowd soon dispersed.

During the day the strikers followed the advice given by the American Federation of Labor leaders and refrained from disorder, but their wives and children kept up a constant din, while the weavers now at the mills were escorted to and from their homes by city and county officials.

Just after the noon parade a deputy sheriff approached Nick Assati, a striker, showed him a warrant and told him he was under arrest, charged with attacking Father Kassir. Assati got in less than half an hour and rejoined his colleagues in front of the mills.

The deputies made another rally on the streets about 3:30 o'clock, rounded up three men and hurried them before Justice Hicks. They were A. Swartz, who was charged with carrying a gun, and Nohem and Hackett Denney, alleged to have thrown stones at a woman. The three obtained bail later. Sheriff George C. Otto, of Elizabeth, was at the mills all day with thirty picked men, twenty-five of whom, he asserted, did not "touch a drop." He was aided by Chief of Police George W. Brown, with six patrolmen.

Deputies Guard Workers.

At noon forty employees left the mills escorted by many deputies. On the sidewalks appeared many many children in their arms—and boys and girls. Some had provided themselves with cowbells, horns and whistles, but others contented themselves with shouting "Kassir! Kassir!" The three obtained bail later. Sheriff George C. Otto, of Elizabeth, was at the mills all day with thirty picked men, twenty-five of whom, he asserted, did not "touch a drop." He was aided by Chief of Police George W. Brown, with six patrolmen.

Augmented by nearly a hundred newcomers, a similar procession trailed the "scabs" to their homes after the day's work. Sheriff Otto, however, had his men sprinkled along Morris Avenue and the striking enthusiasts did little more than make noise.

The strikers are particularly angry at Father Kassir. They contend that he has been instrumental in bringing strikebreakers into the town. He says he has simply acted as interpreter for some men from Aleppo, unable to speak English.

TO ACT WITH VEGETABLES

Woman's Forum Skit on Open Markets Will Have Realism.

The Woman's Forum has its annual frolic to-day. "The Forum Follies" will take the form this year of a skit on the open markets. The Berkeley Theatre is the place, and 2:30 sharp the hour. The skit, "Market Day," will be elaborately staged, with real vegetables, etc., displayed in stalls, and all types of buyers. Mrs. Marcus M. Marks will be chief market inspector, and Miss Helen Varick Bassett, president of the forum, will keep a stall. After the play there will be dancing and music. The proceeds of the entertainment will go to the forum's practical philanthropy fund.

SWEEPERS' FAMILY BILLS SEALED BY ALDERMEN

City Fathers Refuse to Pry Into Wardrobe Accounts of Laborers' Wives to Strike Balance for Salary Increases.

By a vote of 58 to 2 the Board of Aldermen disapproved yesterday of any attempt on the part of city officials to find out how much the wife of a street sweeper pays for her corsets.

It was the Bureau of Standards, of which George Tirrell is director, that came in for a grilling at the hands of the aldermen. The basis of their complaint was the circular recently sent out to a limited number of employees of the Street Cleaning Department, in which they were asked to state in detail the expenses of their households and the individual members thereof.

The occasion for the attack was the request of the Bureau of Standards for the establishment of the grade of inspectors of institutions at $2,100 a year. William Van Wirt, now an examiner of grades and salaries, is the man who had been selected to fill the place. But it was not established, the decision being rendered by the vote as given above.

"If this place were established," snorted Alderman Dowling, "it would become a part of the entertainment bureau, which this Bureau of Standards should be called."

President McNary said the circulars were sent out without the knowledge of the Board of Estimate, and he regretted that it had been done, but he voted for the resolution. Alderman Dowling was the only other member of the board to cast an affirmative vote.

The circulars, which were intended to form a basis for increasing the salaries of the street cleaners, asked them to state how much their wives paid for their garters, their stockings, their underwear and other articles. Lists of clothing for other members of the family were given and the prices paid for the articles were to be furnished.

"The man who got up this list of questions is a wonder," said Alderman Dowling. "No doubt he will ask for a raise in salary as a reward." He started to read the circular, which brought out repeated laughter.

"I think we have heard enough of that," said Alderman Pendry, who does not approve of any levity.

Notables Gather in Aid of Blind at "Frugal Fete and Fantaisie"

BARONESS VON ROTTENTHAL, IN A "DANCE OF THE IMAGINATION" AT THE "FRUGAL FETE AND FANTASIE."

Mayor Mitchel and Governor Whitman's Representative, Lorillard Spencer, the Guests of Honor at Eighth Annual Entertainment of New York Association.

The eighth annual entertainment for the benefit of the New York Association for the Blind was held last night in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor, and, as usual, drew a large gathering of prominent persons, including the Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel.

The Governor, who was expected, telegraphed in the afternoon that he would be unable to attend, but sent Lorillard Spencer to represent him. The affair, styled a frugal fete and fantasia, opened with a reception to the Governor's representative and Mayor Mitchel, who were presented with the grand seal, keys and freedom of the Frugal Town of Fantaisie by Father Knickerbocker, in the person of Charles Stewart Butler. They were surrounded by policemen, who wore wings, and whose business it was to start trouble instead of suppressing it.

After a tour of the town a fantastic pantomime was given, opening with "Dance of the Imagination," done by the Baroness von Rottenthal. Arranged about the rooms were booths, presided over by young women of society, who were visited in turn by the baroness and called forth from their stalls to dance and entertain the guests.

The first to appear was "Phoebe Snow," represented by Miss Ina Kissel, who did a fox trot with Edward Shippen. Then called in turn were a Long Island Railroad maid, the Campbell Kids, represented by Miss Louise Froth, Mrs. Hendrik Hudson, E. Percival Doetsch, Ernest B. Osborne and Clagett Wilson.

The telephone company was represented by Father Knickerbocker, who called on the long distance the California fair (Mrs. Lytle Mahan). They appeared in a short dance and were followed by Mrs. James E. Miller (trumpeter), James E. Miller, Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee.

On their arrival at the Astor the guests were received by Miss Winifred Holt, Mrs. Prescott Hall Butler, Mrs. Cabot Ward, Mrs. Willard D. Straight, Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee.

TANZER CASE JURY MAY INDICT SEVEN

Will Report To-day—Clerk Who Said He Saw J. W. Osborne to Tell All.

The federal grand jury is expected to file indictments to-day in the Osborne-Tanzer case. United States Attorney Marshall said last night that the government would finish the presentation of its case to-day. It is understood that seven true bills will be found against as many persons, all of whom have been mentioned as involved in the Osborne-Tanzer tangle.

The indictments are expected to be for violation of various sections of the penal code, under the general heading of conspiracy to defraud, in connection with the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Rae Tanzer against James W. Osborne and afterward discontinued.

Franklin D. Safford, the former hotel clerk at Plainfield, N. J., who is held in the Tombs on a charge of perjury, sent a written request yesterday by his counsel, J. B. Engel, to Assistant United States Attorney Wood that he be permitted to tell his story to the federal grand jury. Mr. Engel told Mr. Wood that his client was willing to sign a waiver of immunity.

The request came too late yesterday for consideration by the grand jury. It will be presented to that body to-day, and if they desire to hear Safford he will be permitted to testify.

Safford did not indicate to the United States Attorney the nature of his testimony. If he should admit that he had been mistaken in his identification of James W. Osborne as the missing Oliver Osborne at the hearing before United States Commissioner Houghton the government's case would be strengthened. The federal authorities feel that Safford knows a good deal about the alleged conspiracy and that his testimony might be highly illuminating to the grand jury. He will not be allowed to testify, however, unless he waives immunity.

William G. De Meza, city judge at Plainfield, N. J., and William J. Newcorn, former city judge at Plainfield, were witnesses before the federal grand jury yesterday. Judge De Meza is counsel for W. J. Kitchen, proprietor of the Kensington Hotel, at Plainfield, who testified that James W. Osborne was not the Oliver Osborne who registered at his hotel on October 18 last. Safford, Kitchen's clerk at the time, made the identification, which resulted in his arrest on a charge of perjury.

Harold Spielberg, present counsel for Rae Tanzer, and Post-office Inspectors H. B. Mayhew and W. G. Swain, were the other witnesses before the grand jury yesterday. Mayhew and Swain were the inspectors who seized Oliver Osborne's two trunks and other belongings at the East Sixtieth Street boarding house. Mr. Marshall and Mr. Wood denied the report yesterday that the trunks had been "planted" at the boarding house in order to frighten Tanzer girl into a confession.

The records show that Oliver Osborne gave up his room at the house of Mrs. Stuart Denham, in Sixtieth Street, on March 19, said Mr. Wood, "and his trunks were removed but later brought back. Mrs. Denham identified the trunks as his and so did Mrs. Ethel Nye, who declares Oliver Osborne married her under the name of Nye."

The trials of some of the cases of those expected to be indicted to-day may begin within the next two weeks.

Restitution Wins No Mercy.

Judge Mulqueen, in General Sessions, yesterday sentenced James Lyddy, of 218 Hudson Street, to not less than five nor more than ten years in Sing Sing for grand larceny, despite the fact that the prisoner had restored the money he stole.

Other numbers on the programme were an Oriental dance by Miss Susan Fish Greener and Gerald Onativia, and a Greek idyl, in which appeared Miss Dorothy Battie and Miss Catherine Dahlgren, who looked after the flowers, and Mrs. Gardner W. Millett, Miss Louise Butler, Miss Marian Gibney, Miss Dorothy Wells, Miss Lena Wyeth and Miss Pauline Wells, favor and booth committee.

Many dinners were given before the entertainment, among the hostesses being Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, Miss Winifred Holt, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee and Mrs. W. P. Hamilton.

COL. JAY LEFT $1,500,000

$10,000 a Year to Widow; at Her Death Daughter Gets All.

The will of Colonel William Jay, who died at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., a few days ago, was filed with Surrogate Sawyer at White Plains yesterday. It disposes of an estate estimated to be worth close to $1,500,000. The transfer tax affidavit filed with the will gives the value of the real estate as over $200,000 and the personal property as over $100,000.

Colonel Jay leaves his large country mansion, known as Bedford House, at Bedford, Westchester County; his silver plate, his portrait by Sargent and the portrait of his wife by Hanson Walker and other paintings in that home, together with all his horses, ponies and prize cattle and other property at the Jay farm, to his daughter, Eleanor Iselin, wife of Arthur Iselin.

The remainder of the estate, including stocks, bonds, etc., is turned over to the executors, to hold and pay to the widow, Lucy Jay, $10,000 a year, and if the income exceeds that amount to divide the remainder between his wife and daughter. On the death of Mrs. Jay Mrs. Iselin inherits all.
